He who peeps through a hole may see what will vex him.—Spanish Proverb.

An Ohio minister, who has just been found to possess 13 wives, said he married every time the spirit moved him. Revivals would be superfluous for that pastor.

The Missouri house of representatives has passed the antislavery bill, 88 to 39, making it a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of $5 to $200, to give a tip to any waiter, porter or other servant. There's only one thing harder to prevent than tipping. That's the lipping.

A punctured automobile tire. The principle of which is a series of springs to take the place of pneumatic air cushion, has been worked up by Blanch Walsh, the well-known actress. A patent has been applied for, and a company organized to market this tire.

If President Roosevelt can bring such a thing about, Congress will pass a law which will prevent discrimination against the uniform of the army or the navy. Several cases, involving this question, are pending in state courts, but the more recent case of the refusal of a skating rink proprietor at Plattburgh, N. Y., to admit soldiers in uniform, which was sustained by Judge Everest, of the city court, has given an impetus to the movement, set on foot by the President some time ago, to insist that the uniform shall be recognized in all public places.

After the passing of a month since the balloting for officers of the Mutual and New York Life Insurance Companies, the official canvass of the votes is still proceeding slowly and at the enormous expense of about $500 a day for each company. In fact the actual counting of ballots has not yet begun in the New York Life and it is estimated that the elections will cost each company in the neighborhood of $75,000. Then after the entire vote is counted, the thing may have to be gone over because of votes casted.

The New York Sun declares that every day the traveling public presents to the Pullman car porters $6,000, or more than $2,000,000 a year. It figures the thing out in this way: "There are about 3,000 porters in the employ of the Pullman company. If the total amount received by each of them was a dollar a day, that would be $3,000. But in order to make allowance for time off and stingy travelers who give little or nothing suppose we knock off a couple of thousand dollars every morning. That would make $6,000 a day or $2,190,000 a year." This generous estimate of the traveling public enables the Pullman company to hire car porters for $25 a month instead of $40, thus making a saving of $15 a month on each man. If people are wise, they will content themselves in the future with paying their own bills without attempting to share the legitimate expenses of a corporation which already has more money than it can use to advantage.

The filing of plans for the tower of the Metropolitan Life Insurance building at Twenty-third street, between Madison and Fourth avenues, New York, indicate that this will be the highest business structure in the world, and second only to the Eiffel tower itself. The base of the Metropolitan tower will rest on the corner formerly occupied by Dr. J. B. Smith's Madison Square church, and will be 75x85 feet. The top will be 658 feet from the street and 630 feet from the foundation. The clock face in the tower will be 246 feet above the sidewalk. The building, when completed will cover the entire block bounded by Madison and Fourth avenues and Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets. It will contain a floor area of twenty-five acres. New York indicates that the tower of the Singer building at Broadway and Liberty streets, which will be 593 feet. The Washington monument is 555 feet. The Philadelphia city hall 547 feet. The Colosseum in Rome 155 feet. The pyramid of Cheops 486 feet. The Antwerp cathedral 476 feet. The Strasburg cathedral 474 feet.

$100 Reward, $100.
The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh of the Bladder. It is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for testimonials.

To stop a Cold with "Preventives" is safer than to let it run and cure it afterwards. Taken at the "sneeze stage" Preventives will head off all colds and Grippe, and perhaps save you from Pneumonia or Bronchitis. Preventives are little toothsome candy cure tablets selling in 5 cent and 25 cent boxes. If you are chilly, if you begin to sneeze, try Preventives. They will surely check the cold, and please you. ## BEWARE OF "DIGESTIVES"

The Only Way to Cure Stomach Disorders Is by Strengthening the Digestive Organs

The ordinary peptic tablet has ruined more stomachs than all other causes combined. While it gives temporary relief, it leaves the digestive system weaker than ever, and the tablets must be continued with increased frequency. The only way to permanently cure stomach troubles is by strengthening the digestive organs with a Mi-o-na stomach tablet taken before meals. In this way the remedy prepares the stomach for the food and excites the secretion of gastric juices so that, when the food is eaten, the stomach is prepared to digest it.

If Mi-o-na was a mere digestive, it would be of little use, for it would mix with the food, but then permanent relief would not be gained. Mi-o-na stomach tablets are sold only in a neat metal box, convenient for carrying in your pocket, and cost but one cent. C. H. Pendleton, druggist and optician, and Wm. H. Kittredge, druggist, have seen so many cures made by Mi-o-na stomach tablets that they guarantee the remedy will be repeated if the stomach fails to give satisfaction. You run no risk in using Mi-o-na, for you are sure to be cured at trifling expense, or else your money will be returned.

INTO TWO DISTRICTS.

Eastern Maine Conference May Have General Missionary and Deaconesses Instead of Third Elder.

The principal feature of the conference which is to be held in Bangor, Feb. 27, by the Methodist Ministers' union of the East Maine Conference, will be the discussion of the advisability of the amalgamation of the Bangor and Bucksport districts into two, instead of three, as at present.

The annual conference is to be held in Bangor Harbor in April and those in favor of the scheme hope to have something definite done before that meeting is held. The scheme of changing into two districts, instead of the present arrangement of three, has been discussed before or less for some time, but no definite action looking to a solution of the matter has been brought up.

However during the past few months the subject has been brought up with renewed vigor, says the Bangor Commercial, and those in favor of the plan intend to have the subject thoroughly talked over, and if all favor it to place it before the attention of Bishop Warren for final action.

For a long time it has been felt that the territory now covered by the East Maine conference in three districts, with a presiding elder at the head of each, could be as well looked after by two elders, and the money which has been devoted to the salary of the third elder could be used to defray the expenses of a traveling missionary or to help support deaconesses who might be brought here. There is no doubt that there is a great missionary field in this section of the state for the Methodist church and it is thought that with the aid of a missionary, who would devote his time to going among small parishes which at the present time have no resident minister, much good would result to the church.

At the meeting which is to be held in Bangor, Feb. 27, the question will be discussed from all sides and should those present favor the plan, their recommendations will be sent to Bishop Warren, who will make his decision on the matter.

Tibbetts' Talk o' the Turf.

Courier-Gazette's Trotting Authority Reviews Season's Record and Looks Over Knox County Stock.

Winter is a quiet and somewhat lonely season for the average trainer and driver of fast horses. The owners of race horses and the proprietors of stock farms are looking forward with bright anticipations for a prosperous season during the summer and fall of 1907.

The year 1906 was one of unusual activity among horsemen. It was a season of fast records and closely contested races, especially so in the contests where young horses and colts took a part. It is true that no world's records were lowered last year, and no sensational miles were trotted or paced by aged horses, but the youngsters in their races and trials were lightning fast.

The world's running record, 1:35 1/4, made by Salvador some years ago in this country, still holds good. Dan Patch, 1:55 1/4, is the champion pacer, and Lou Dillon, 1:58 1/4, holds the world's trotting record. The fastest public syle trotted in 1906 was in 2:02, made by Sweet Marie last September at Columbus, Ohio. This fastest recorded mile paced in 1906 was 2:06 1/4, made by the gelding Bolivar at Rockville, Md., last August. The fastest mile trotted by a 2-year-old was 2:14 1/4, made by Kentucky Tod at Lexington, Ky., Oct. 4th, 1906. The Abbe, a 3-year-old, sired by the gelding Bolivar at Rockville, Md., in 2:10 1/4. Guy Axworthy, a 4-year-old, trotted a mile last October at Lexington, Ky. in 2:08 1/4. Capt. Bacon, a 5-year-old, by Bingen, 2:06 1/4, paced a mile on the trot in 2:04 1/4, the fastest mile of the year by a 5-year-old. A 2-year-old paced a mile in 2:15 1/4 at Woodland, California, last fall. His name is Aerolight, a son of Searchlight, 2:03 1/4. Brenda Yorke, a 3-year-old filly, paced a mile in 2:08 1/4 at Columbus, Ohio, September 18th, 1906. She was sired by Moke, Wapello Girl, a daughter of Iowa Sentinel, paced a mile last August in 2:07 1/4. Argot Boy, a 5-year-old, paced a mile at Readville, Mass., last August in 2:05 1/4.

The above records were all made over a mile track which is considered from 4 to 6 seconds faster than a half mile track. A gelding named Frank Yeakum, paced a mile against time over a half mile track last August in 2:06 1/4. Good races are not plenty and prices for speed prospects, gentlemen's drivers and first class work horses are high. There are more colts being bred this year than at any time during the past dozen years. It is a well known fact that our state is well adapted for the raising of good rugged, hardy horses and many farmers are taking quite an interest in so doing. Our state and county fairs were well attended as a rule last year and where weather conditions were favorable were a success, both financially and otherwise. Many of the seedling will offer $500, purse next season for the free for all and other fast classes. This is good news for horsemen who campaign horses over the state.

We have had considerable sleighing this winter, but the conditions for fast driving, either on the road or on the lakes, have been far from favorable and practically no fast racing has been done. Park street speed way in Rockland has been the scene of a few brushies, but the footing has not been real good. There is time enough before March for the boys to meet on the snow path with their fast nags and I hope to see some sport on this line, also to take a part in it. Speaking of sleighing I will speak of one that my friend Enos Ingraham of the S. E. & H. L. Shepherd Co. of Rockport and myself took Wednesday night, Jan. 23. The Maine Lodge in Rockland, of which I am a member, installed its officers that evening and owing to the fact that no regular car leaves Rockland for Camden after 10:10 p. m. we decided to ride down with my team. It was a very low when we left at 6 p. m. We had quite a comfortable ride down and a very pleasant evening at the Masonic hall where we had the pleasure of hearing the Lotus quartet of Lewiston in a splendid program; also the impressive ceremonies of the installation of the officers of Aurora Lodge, F. A. M., and King Solomon Temple Chapter, R. A. M.

During our stay in Rockland a strong northwest wind had drifted the snow and the mercury had taken a decided drop. We left Rockland for home at 11 p. m., arriving in Rockport at midnight after one of the coldest and hardest sleighrides of my life. The thermometer registered below zero at my house on my arrival home and I was fully aware that I had taken a cold sleighride. Mr. Ingraham was a derby sleigher and had it not been for a life preserver in the form of a big old fashioned woolen neck scarf that I had with me this might have been an obituary that I am writing. With an internal liquid bath and hot water bottle.

Special Announcement Regarding the National Pure Food and Drug Law
We are pleased to announce that Foley's Honey and Tar for coughs, colds and lung troubles is not affected by the National Pure Food and Drug law as it contains no opiates or other harmful drugs, and we recommend it as a safe remedy for children and adults. W. H. Kittredge, druggist; C. H. Pendleton, druggist and optician.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. Safe and sure in its action; pleasant to take. Conforms to National Pure Food and Drug Law. Sold by Wm. H. Kittredge.

A statistical article in the January Van Norden Magazine dealing with the development of electric railways in the United States says that the electric railways if stretched out in one line would encircle the earth, and that there are now only 250 miles of horse car lines in operation. According to the same writer, more than 1000 people were killed and 47,000 injured on these trolley lines last year. In rural districts the trolley car has taken the place of the stage coach and the farm wagon.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM
The Flower Gatherers.
I left behind the ways of care,
The crowded hurrying hours;
I breathed again the woodland air,
I plucked the woodland flowers.
Bluebells as yet but half awake,
Primroses pale and cool,
Anemones like stars that shake
In a green twilight pool.
On these still lay the enchanted shade,
The magic of April sun;
With my own child a child I strayed
And thought the years were gone.
As through the copse she went and came
My senses lost their truth;
I called her by the dear dead name
That sweetened all my youth.
Henry Newbolt.

BLUEBEARD.

Two Different Stories as to Who Was the Original.

Like many of the other heroes of the nursery tales, Bluebeard once lived in a French chateau. If the old chronicler Holbein, from whom Shakespeare got so much of his material, is to be believed, according to that writer the original Bluebeard was Gilles de Rais, marquis of Laval, who became marshal of France in 1420. He is described as an impious and debauched man, a devotee of the black art, who enticed young men and women to his castle and killed them in order to obtain innocent blood for his magical enchantments and who also murdered six or seven of his wives. His crimes were discovered, and he was burned at the stake in 1440 at Nantes.

According to an old French legend, however, the original Bluebeard lived in Brittany in the sixteenth century and was known as Count Commer, after seven of his wives had disappeared he became enamored of Triphyna, the daughter of Count Guereck of Vannes. The wedding was celebrated at Vannes, and Commer took his bride home.

Before a year had passed Triphyna noticed a change in her husband's manner, and, fearing the same fate that had met her predecessors, she fled from the castle, but was overtaken by Commer, who struck off her head with a single blow. St. Gildas, by whom the unfortunate wife had been educated, happened to pass the spot soon after, and, seeing the body, he tenderly placed the head and by prayer restored Triphyna to life. The story does not relate the end of Commer.

PHYSICAL EXERCISE.

Effect of Boxing on the Mental and Moral Faculties.

Boxing is an exercise which is not only of the most marked benefit in a purely physical way, but it is of the utmost value as a means of training the mental and moral faculties. One of the most unfortunate weaknesses of our very whimsical day is the prejudice against boxing as a sport and exercise. There is no sport in which there is provided such splendid exercise for body and mind and spirit as in boxing.

The physical influence of boxing is superb. Every muscle and organ is brought into active use. So far as mentality is concerned, the perception, imagination, judgment, discretion, self confidence, aggressiveness and will are all brought into active and rapid use. The boxer who falls in perceiving his opponent's intention, who misses in judging the power or reach of his blow, who is lacking in self confidence, will power or aggressiveness, who fails for one moment to remember all the weak points of the man against whom he is working—that boxer is likely to fail, to lose what we all value—that is, reputation, public confidence and income. Among the many sports and games which are of value in training the mind I place boxing as by all means the most valuable.—W. R. C. Latson, M. D., in Outlook Magazine.

SYRUP OF CEDRON never tightens, but loosens the cough.

THE PASSION PLAY.

Its Origin, According to the Tradition of Oberammergau.

According to local tradition, the origin of the Oberammergau Passion play was as follows: When in the year 1633 a deadly plague threatened to depopulate the districts of Partenkirchen, Escheloke and Kohlgub, which are separated from Ammerthal, or the valley of the Ammer, by a rampart of mountains, the Ammerthalers succeeded for a time in protecting themselves against the dread contagion, but one day a native who had been working all summer at Escheloke evaded the quarantine and entered the Ammerthal by a secret path in order to celebrate an annual church festival with his family. Two days afterward he was a corpse, and in less than three weeks the plague had carried off eighty-four of the Ammerthalers.

Despairing of all human succor, the terrified survivors addressed themselves to God and registered a solemn vow that if he heard their prayer and removed the scourge they would represent, every ten years, "for thankful remembrance and edifying contemplation, and by the help of the Almighty, the sufferings of Jesus, the Saviour of the world."

Not a single person died of the plague after the vow was made, though many were affected by it. The first representation of the Passion play in fulfillment of the vow of these simple villagers took place at Oberammergau in the following year, and it has been repeated every ten years without a single omission.

FEMININE INFLUENCE.

Nowhere is it More Felt and Less Recognized Than in France.

There is still in every Frenchman a great deal of the oriental way of looking at woman.

And the French wife knows it, but she goes on helping her "man," be she duchess or maid. She will forgive again and again; she will let him squander her dot and will learn how to do with fewer frocks (the delight of every Frenchwoman) in an ever pitiful attempt to patch up the fortune and happiness he has wrecked. If she happens to be a shopman's wife he needs no bookkeeper or manager; she will be there from morning till night, the slave of the ledger, careful of every centime, while he, too, often will leave the heavier part of the business in her capable hands and turn his attention to a domino party at the nearest cafe. If she be a peasant's wife no one on the farm will slave harder than she. There is scarcely any labor which she will not undertake.

In every sphere woman is too often the man of the house. Nowhere is feminine influence more active, more felt and less recognized than in France, and nowhere among the civilized nations is man more dependent on woman, more attached to her and less respectful.—London Mail.

Speed of Sounds.

"Judge David Torrance of Derby, Conn.," said a New Haven man, "uttered many an epigram from the bench. In a case concerning a noise nuisance a scientist was once testifying before him about the speed of sound."

"Sound," said the man, "travels at the rate of 400 yards a second."

"All sound?" asked Judge Torrance.

"All," replied the scientist.

"I'm sure you're wrong," he said, "I have noticed a great difference between the speed of certain kinds of sound. Thus, slander travels at the rate of quite 1,000 yards a second; flattery, 500 yards, while truth makes only a few feet a second, and, slow as its progress is, truth often fails to reach the goal, no matter how short the distance."—Indianapolis Star.

The Persians.

Socially I found the Persian people a great improvement on the other orientals of the farther east whom I had met. They are of a happy disposition and bright imagination, doubtless produced by the dry, clear air of their high table lands, which relieves from dullness and depression. They enjoy a joke and laugh heartily, and they are able to see that most things have their amusing side. I was struck with much among all classes which showed that their manners and ways had been favorably touched and turned by a softening civilization of ancient date.—General Gordon's "A Varied Life."

The Woman of Poise.

It is the creed of the up to date woman never to give herself away. A cup of coffee may be spilled over her delicate silk gown; she simply holds the breadths together and goes on with her flow of feminine talk. "Elegant terrible," makes agonizing remarks, a rival gives some cruel stab; all is met with the same absolute immobility of countenance.—London Lady.

The Rehearsal.

Bobby—Softly will be down in a few minutes. Mr. Softly: She's upstairs rehearsing. Mr. Softly (who has come prepared)—W-what is she rehearsing, Bobby? Bobby—I don't know, but she's standing in front of the mirror and blushing and saying, "Oh, Mr. Softly—er—this is so sudden."

Make a Difference.

"George told me today he loved me more than his very life."

"Nonsense. All the young men say that."

"That may be true. But they all don't say it to me."

He removes the greatest ornament of friendship who takes away from it respect.—Cicero.

Irremediable.

Fan—I wasn't expecting to be called on to say anything, you know, and when the president of the club asked me to make a few remarks I just went all to pieces. Nan—You remember I told you those buttons on the back of your waist wouldn't stand the slightest strain, don't you?—Chicago Tribune.

Few Left-handed People.

About 91 per cent of otherwise normal people use the right hand in preference to the left; 6 per cent are left-handed, and it is a curious fact that one-third of the 6 per cent are ambidextrous.—Portland (Ore.) Journal.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional. Both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

THE LAND OF ROMANCE.

Spain and the Peculiar Temperament of Its People.

If I were asked to sum up the dominant impression that the survival in Spain of the old world medievalism makes, I should say that Spain is in the precise and specific sense of the word the home of romance. The special character of the Spanish temperament and of Spanish developments in literature and in art is marked by a quality, rising and sinking with the rise and fall of Gothic, which we call the romantic spirit—a mixture, that is, of the mysterious and grandiose with the grotesquely bizarre of the soaringly ideal with the crudely real, a mixture which to us today has the cunning fascination of art, but was really on both sides the natural outcome of the experiences and feelings of the men who created it. This romantic spirit was once the common possession of all Christendom, but the Spanish temperament peculiarly lent itself to the romantic attitude, and it is in Spain to-day that we may catch its final vanishing echoes. It is the church, always the most powerful stronghold of tradition among any people, which enables the stranger most vividly to realize how well the romantic spirit has been preserved in Spain. Notwithstanding invasions from without and revolutions from within, especially during the early years of the last century, Spain is still the country where the medieval spirit of romantic devotion is most genuinely embodied and preserved.—Havelock Ellis in Atlantic.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

A Member May Drink There, but is Not Allowed to Eat.

The British house of commons has its own code in regard to the partaking of liquid and solid refreshments. A member making a long speech may take a drink, and the house is liberal enough not to care whether the color of the contents of the glass is white or brown or black, whether, in fact, the glass holds water or whisky or beer. Mr. Gladstone's egg flips, which his wife carefully compounded for him and he brought to the house in a bottle, are a case in point. But when a member betide the man who scorns drink and must have meat. Contemporary recollection only recalls one member rash enough to disregard this rule. It was a number of years ago, in the stormy time of the home rule debates, that an Irish member, in the small hours of the morning, produced from his pocket a paper bag and drew out a bun, which he proceeded calmly to eat. The house was instantly in an uproar. There were loud cries of "Order! Order!" and that bun was never finished.

No member may read a newspaper in the house. If he had the temerity to smoke, the sergeant at arms would quickly place him under lock and key.—Appleton's Magazine.

Mexican Church Legends.

Queretaro was a town before the Spanish conquest and was made a city in 1655. A legend of Queretaro is that an Otomitic chief, Fernando de Tapia by name, undertook to convert the city to Christianity in a way that seems novel to us, but was common enough to his day. He came from Tula with a challenge to the people of Queretaro to a fair stand up fight. If he won, the people surviving were to be baptized. The challenge was accepted, but while the fight was in progress a dark cloud came up and the blessed Santiago was seen in the heavens with a fiery cross, whereupon the people of Queretaro gave up and were baptized. They set up a stone cross to commemorate the event on the site of the present church of Santa Cruz. There is scarcely a church in Mexico which has not a legend of this kind attached to it.

Misjudged.

The manager of an office had advertised for an office boy. In consequence he was annoyed for an hour by a straggling line of boys of all sizes, claiming various accomplishments. "Well," he said to a late applicant, "I suppose you can read anything, and write anything, and figure a little, and use the typewriter a little, and—"

"Now!" interrupted the boy. "If I could do all them things I'd strike yer fer yer own job. I ain't nothin' but an office boy."

He got the position.—Bohemian.

MANNERS AT TABLE.

The Etiquette of Eating in the Seventeenth Century.

An account of hospitality in 1620 gives a good idea of the manner in which a country gentleman of the period lived. Dinner and supper were brought in by the servants with their hats on, a custom which is corroborated by Fynes Moryson, who says that, being at a knight's house who had many servants to attend him, they brought in the meats with their hands covered with white caps. After washing their hands in a basin they sat down to dinner, and Sir James Pringle said grace. The viands seemed to have been plentiful and excellent—"big pottage, long kale, bowe of white kale," which is cabbage; "brach suppen," powdered beef, roast and boiled mutton, a venison pie in form of an egg, goose. Then they had cheese, cut and uncut, and apples. But the close of the feast was the most curious thing about it.

The tablecloth was removed, and on the table were put of the table and half the length of it, a basin and ever to wash, then a green carpet laid on, then one cup of beer set on the carpet, then a little long lawn servitor plaited over the corner of the table and a glass of hot water set down also on the table; then there three boys to say grace—the first, the thanksgiving; the second, the Pater Noster; the third, prayer for a blessing of God's church. The good man of the house, his parents, kinsfolk and the whole company then do drink hot waters, so at supper, then to bed, the colation which (is) a stoupe of all."—Scottish Review.

BRAIN QUALITY.

It Is of Just as Much Importance as the Quantity.

The brain of Daniel Webster weighed fifty-seven ounces, that of Napoleon Bonaparte about the same. This is about three pounds and a half. These were exceeded by the brain of Cuvier, the great French naturalist, which weighed between fifty-nine and sixty ounces, and that of the French surgeon Dupuytren, which weighed fifty-eight ounces. The average weight of the brain of man is about fifty ounces and of women forty-five ounces. The maximum weight of the healthy adult brain is about sixty-four ounces and the minimum thirty-one ounces. Men of great intellectual power have generally if not always possessed large brains. The quality of the brain is, however, quite as important as the quantity, so that a large brain does not of necessity constitute a great man. The size of the brain is not in proportion to the physical development of the body, either in animals or in man. The horse has a brain less in weight than the smallest adult human brain; that of a whale seventy-five feet long was found to weigh not quite twice as much as that of a man. Even in men there is no fixed relation between the size of the body and that of the brain. A small man may have a large brain and a big man a small brain.

Warship Models.

Paraffin wax models of all proposed British battleships are used by the admiralty for tests before the keels of the ships are laid down, the miniatures being tested in a great tank. The models are from twelve to twenty-four feet long, the tank being 400 feet long and twenty feet wide. The models are made of wax because it is a material which does not absorb water or change its weight, so that alterations can be easily made, and the material can be melted up and used again. The American naval authorities also have models of all their hulls constructed, but these are much more elaborate than the British, being formed of white pine and fitted with rudders, false keels, propeller shafts and all other ceteras.

Mixed Metaphors.

Sir Robert Purvis, addressing his old constituents at Peterborough in defense of an act of parliament under whose operation some of them had gone to prison for a week, said: "That, gentlemen, is the marrow of the education act, that it will not be taken out by Dr. Clifford or anybody else. It is founded on a granite foundation, and it speaks in a voice not to be drowned by sectarian clamor." In an address to the Kaiser Wilhelm's father a Rhineland mayor said, "No Austria, no Prussia, no only Germany. Such were the words of the mouth of your imperial majesty has always had in its eye."

London's Fog.

November is London's worst month for fogs. During a good year the Londoner may have to breathe only fifty fogs. In a very bad year he may have to endure as many as eighty. London's countless coal fires mingling soot with mist, concoct the Londoner's fog for him. The great majority of fogs in the metropolis begin to form between 7 and 8 in the morning, just when most fires are being lighted.

Changed.

"Hello, Pepper, old chap!" exclaimed a man to another. "You have altered—scarcely knew you."

"My name—how—is not Pepper," protested the other laughingly.

"Ah," remarked the first speaker, in no way abashed, "then your name has altered too! By-by."—London Mail.

"Yes," said the warden, "he was the coolest and most thoughtful convict who ever broke jail."

"You don't say?" exclaimed the visitor.

"Yes! he left behind him a note to the governor of the state beginning, 'I hope you will pardon me for the liberty I'm taking.'"—Catholic Standard and Times.

The Intention Was Good.

Governor—You're a naughty little girl, Christabel, to kick your cousin like that. Christabel—I didn't kick her. Governor—Oh, hush, dear! I saw you kick her several times. Christabel—I didn't. I missed her every time.—Punch.

laws of the general question of corporations. These laws in a majority of cases are framed by men who look at the question from the point of view of the interests of the many. Their endeavor is to make political capital out of the question and pander to the generally inflamed public sentiment.

All this state legislation is going to make it increasingly difficult for Congress to adopt a wise and firm plan to controlling corporations.
